

Two Hospitals. One Goal.

THE VERY BEST CARE CLOSE TO HOME.

Together, we are creating a stronger voice and vision for local health care.

Almonte General Hospital and Carleton Place & District Memorial Hospital are working together to improve each patient's overall health care experience through a strong, coordinated system of care. The Mississippi River Health Alliance is a joint committee that makes recommendations to the two Hospital Boards.

Over the past year, there have been several new initiatives, including:

- A successful joint pilot project to support vulnerable seniors in our region
- Several shared leadership positions to support collaborative work
- A joint strategic planning process to ensure alignment between the two hospitals
- A joint pharmacy system for safe medication delivery
- Combined buying power to purchase new x-ray equipment for both hospitals

Each hospital remains a separate corporation with its own Board, Foundation and Volunteers. Funds raised in each community stay in each community. Together we have a single goal: better care.
